Lessons Learned from the Editorial Board

Collectively, IEEE Security & Privacy's editorial board has deep and broad expertise and experience in all aspects of security and privacy matters. From government service to research to application development, our editorial board members work year after year to suggest topics, solicit articles, and oversee the rigorous review process that leads to high-quality articles written in interesting, accessible language. In this forward-thinking and multidisciplinary special issue, editorial board members share the lessons they have learned in their fruitful careers.
